2022 IRS Mileage Reimbursement Rate

Usually the reimbursement rate is fixed for a year but in 2022, with inflation running high and gasoline prices at record levels, the IRS opted to increase the rate.

As of July 1, 2022, taxpayers may claim a standard mileage rate for business travel of 62.5 cents per mile. This was an increase of 4 cents on the rate introduced at the start of the year.

For charity organizations, the rate of 14 cents per mile remains the same, because it is set by statute.
